Today’s feast recognizes that the Lord has come before us. We now wait to see him in our coming into heaven. While we wait, we are to help others know that the Lord has come.

Scripture Insights
Who can endure the day of God’s coming? Who wish to face the refiner’s fire? How do you prepare yourself to meet him? The Lord is coming, we learn, but before we meet him, he will burn away everything in our lives that would keep us from experiencing him fully. The King of Glory is coming, and we must be prepared to receive him, says the Responsorial Psalm. There the gates refer to the elders of the city waiting to welcome the King returning from battle. With them, we bow to receive the Lord of Hosts.

The Second reading show that we do not have to face the Lord of Hosts alone. Jesus has become one of us in every way but sin. He has taken upon himself our sinful nature and through his death on the Cross has made amends for the sins of all. As we prepare to meet our Lord, Jesus is at our side.

In the light of the earlier readings, the Gospel telling us how Jesus first comes to his people in the Temple can be a bit of a shock. In contrast to the “refiner’s fire” (Malachi 3:2c) the Lord of Hosts, and the one who takes our sins upon himself through the Cross, now we see Jesus entering the Temple as a helpless infant in Mary’s arms, protected by Joseph. The Son of God approaches his people in the most vulnerable way. Those in the Temple see a poor couple carrying two turtle doves, obviously people of little or no importance. But Simeon and Anna, inspired by the Holy Spirit, see more. In the infant, they see the salvation of the nations. Likewise, we are called to welcome Jesus in those who are most vulnerable in our society.
