About Palm Sunday

No other Sunday in the liturgical year reflects such dramatic contrast as today. What begins with sons of triumph quickly shifts into the remembrance of the Lord’s Passion. His royal entrance into the holy city of Jerusalem was also an entrance into the mystery of his suffering, death and Resurrection. As we enter this holiest of weeks with Christ, may our participation in each solemn liturgy draw us into deeper union with him and with one another.

Scripture Insights

The Gospel gives us Matthew’s “Passion narrative,” which begins with the betrayal of Judas and concludes with the laying of Jesus in the guarded tomb. Like each of the four evangelists in their account of the Passion, Matthew preserves much of the oral and written tradition passed on to him. This has led scholars to speculate that the Passion narrative was part of the earliest kerygma (or proclamation of Gospel teachings) by the first generation of Christians, since it appears to have solidified into a fixed written form rather quickly. While Matthew provides some additional details (such as the suicide of Judas, 27: 3-10, and the guard at Jesus’ tomb, 27: 62-66), none of these details changes the basic sequence of events as reported by all the evangelists. As the other evangelist, Matthew saw the agony of Jesus’ arrest, interrogation and death as part of the fulfill-ment of Old Testament prophesies; for example, Judas’ thirty pieces of silver for betraying Jesus and Peter’s denial of Jesus, both prophesied by Zechariah (11:12-12 and 13:7). Every Palm Sunday we hear proclaimed the same reading from Paul’s Letter to the Philippians. Scholars believe that this text predates Paul himself and that it was likely a hymn sung in the liturgies of the earliest Christians. We can learn an important lesson about Jesus’ suffering and death form this first generation of Christians: Because of Jesus’ “obedience to the point of death, even death on a cross…, at the name of Jesus every knee should bend… and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord” (Philippians 2:8)
